desired to marry her. The woman did not deny this and told one or two of her friends that Snyder was constantly renewing his suit. She also said that she plainly informed him that she could not unite herself with a man upon whom she could not depend for support. A year ago her parents died at Acton and left her a snug little sum of money. This she did not care to squander upon her worthless lover and instead of accepting him as her husband she allowed him to come to her home. With the money received from her parents she purchased a lot a few weeks ago, and was engaged in erecting a house upon the ground. Her brother, Oren Shaw, of 183 Meek street, was doing the work, and had employed Louis Snyder to assist him. Both men worked until late yesterday afternoon. Snyder, during the week, conversed with Mrs. Cloud's brother numerous times upon his future prospects. In every conversation he included Mrs. Cloud, and informed her brother that his only desire was to make her his wife. Shaw did not favor the plan; he knew Snyder to be a man of uncertain habits, and he advised his sister to break with him once and for all. Late yesterday evening the men had a talk about the matter, and Shaw flatly revealed his feelings. For a week past Snyder has been boarding with Mrs. Cloud, and her son states that he slept there a part of the time. Just before supper last night, from the statement of the domestic, it appears that Mrs. Cloud and her boarder quarreled. The woman mentioned the name of some of those who would take dinner at the house to day, and Snyder objected. The quarrel was not violent, and was all over before tley sat down to the table. Preparatory to accompanying her lover down town, Mrs. Cloud dressed herself tastefully. They left the house together, apparently in the best of humor. At that time no one noticed that Snyder was drinking. Oren Cloud, the son, is positive that he was ir toxicated at the time of the shooting.

Snyder for six months has been doing nothing. Nearly every night he spent at the Cloud home and was there a great deal during the day. He was not considered a vicious man, but was known as a person of violent temper when angered. He is tall, of commanding appearance and dresses well. For several months Mrs. Cloud was satisfied to spend all of her extra time in his company. Lately she grew tired and on he advice of her friends decided to break away from him. He knew that he was fast losing the affection and confidence of the woman. His infatuation for her was something remarkable. He felt that it was but a question of time when he would be thrown entirely aside and this undoubtedly impelled him to end their relations in the desperate manner he adopted last night.

The neighbors of Mrs. Cloud are unanimous in their assertions that she was a good woman, notwithstanding the statement of the police that there is considerable mystery connected with the house. It was hinted last night that the relations between Mrs. Cloud and her slayer were of have singularly open minds. Continuing, the a very intimate nature. This the neighbors do not verify. The dead woman's maiden name was Shaw. She was raised at Acton, sity, but he believed, however, that this reand came to this city several years ago with her husband, Burtin Cloud, who was employed at the Tucker & Dorsey factory. They lived together until two years ago. Her family avers that she was not to blame for the separation. They say that the husband is worthless and that she was compelled to leave him. Cloud is now at Fort Buffington, Ga. The murderer is well known about Indianapolis. The fact that he was very intimate about the home of his victim was evidenced last night by the discovery of his cuffs and collars upon the dressing case in Mrs. Cloud's

PREPARATIONS FOR THE DINNER. A pathetic incident connected with the shocking affair is found in the enthusiastic preparations which the murdered woman made yesterday afternoon for the entertainment of her brother and friends to-day. She had spared no detail, but had gone ahead in glad anticipation of pleasant occasion. It was her purpose, when she came home last night, to place the finishing touches upon a large turkeyinstead she was shot down by the worthless fellow whom she had refused to marry. As she lay upon the carpet of the little sitting room weltering in her own blood the scenes about her were touching. In an adjoining apartment sat her fifteen-year-old son, pallid and shrinking, and endeavoring to explain what he knew of the sad fate of his mother. Roaming from one room to another, wringing her hands in a half distracted way, was the little servant girl; she could not understand the cause that had laid her mistress In the little bedroom opening apartment where body lay by folding doors, everything was neat and clean. The counterpane and pillow of immaculate whiteness were simple proofs of the tidy housekeeper. Just above the bed on the wall was a framed motto; had the glassy staring eyes of the murdered woman been suddenly gifted with sight they might have read: "Mother ne, but not forgotten." Many of those who passed through the room noticed the strange significance of the words,

The home occupied by Mrs. Cloud is a large two-story structure wither elaborately furnished. In the cellar were found several cases of wine and beer. There were other unexplainable luxuries about the place. Mrs. Cloud employed, besides her domestic, a woman who did rough work about the house; the latter is vehement in the assertion that her employer's character was unsmirched.

At midnight the officers set out in search of the murderer. No one had seen him leave the house except the son of Mrs. Cloud. He evidently ran through an alley to Washington street. He has a number of relatives living in this city, and each was visited last night, but no trace of him was found. However, the police do not believe he will leave the city.

AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES.

One of These Flowers or a Bunch of Violets Make a Sufficient Posy.

New York Sun. There is an unwritten code in the giving of flowers which directs that it is better in the eyes of a New York up-to-date girl to receive a single perfect long-stemmed rose from the smartest shop in town than a whole roomful of ordinary postes sent in from an unknown florist. The present fashto a single large and fragrant American Beauty rose or a bunch of violets. The chrysanthemum has had its day, and is going out of season now, but the rage for violets increases, and the fickle fancy of woman is true to the modest little purple flower all the year round. She tucks them in the belt of her summer gown or pins them on her sealskin coat, and at one of the recent swell balls a belle had a gown all trimmed with violets, which looked very pretty until the flowers began to fade. And following the same idea it is accounted more desirable to present a lady with two or three long-stemmed "selected" roses for the tall, straight vase in her room than with a profusion of common flowers. Sometimes the vase accompanies the roses, and a very pretty gift it makes and one which conventionality winks at, even between people not really entitled to give or receive valuable presents. If any one flower were selected as the prime favorite this year the American Beauty would carry off the palm by a large majority, because its vivid and rich coloring accords happily with the season's tints and indeed matches one of

HIS FOURTH LETTER

Bishop Cleveland Coxe Throws More Ink at Mgr. Satolli.

He Says the Sending of the Ablegate to Washington Was a Blunder-An Englishman's View of Gibbons.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 30 .- Bishop Coxe has just made public his fourth letter to Mgr. Satolli. Beginning with a classical reference to the Virgilian tale of "The Wooden Horse of Troy," he says: "Now, at Gonzaga College, you talked like a Simon, but more adroit!". You said we must pull down our great national bulwarks, the cmmon schools, and accept your machine instead. You made it clear that what we need, in your opinion, is the constitution, according to Shechan, and education, according to Satolli." He then quotes from the revised statues of the United States that section which declares it a punishable offense to carry on intercourse with foreign powers to defeat the measures of our gov-

Aga n, reverting to the subject of schools, the Bishop writes: "You profess to admire our institutions, but what can we find to admire in any country where you might have copied them? For four hundred years the petty island of San Domingo has been un-der the exclusive control of your ecclesiastics, and what have your schools done for its wretched people, among whom a large proportion are not only heathen, but cannibals to-day? Why not go where neither schools nor universities exist that are worthy of the name and let us alone, who, for nearly three centuries, have been teaching everybody to read, and whose schools were not godless till your ecclesiastics forced the politicians to take out of them the ten commandments and the Lord's Prayer." The Bisaop concludes these remarks as follows: "You are a stranger alike to our language and the spirit of our laws, and they who sent you on your mission to Washington were guilty of what one of your casuists pronounced worse than a crime, a blunder.

"We wish you a happy New Year with distinguished cons deration. Your Christian A. CLEVELAND COXE, "Bishop of Western New York."

VIEWS OF A CATHOLIC.

Future Welfare of the Republic in the Hands of the Roman Church. LONDON, Dec. 30 .- Mr. Raymond Blathwayt has written a letter to the Chronicle in defense of Cardinal Gibbons, in which he says that two years ago he went to the United States for the purpose of studying the question of American Catholics and their attitude toward Rome. During this visit, he says, he entered into personal communication with Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland and Bishop Keane, and he expresses the opinion that, except the archbishop of New York, whose ideas, the writer claims. are reactionary, all the American prelates writer says: "Cardinal Gibbons told me that he deplored the strikes and their neceswas now again justified in particular cases. "The church, the Cardinal also told me, recognizes that labor has sacred rights, and that dignity was the chief among the natural franchises of the laboring classes, and that it was their right to organize. The church still, according to the Cardinal, recognized that in this lay the safety of a vast community such as exists in America, and the Cardinal would help the Knights of Labor wnen rightly resisting capitalists.' writer further says that the late James Russell Lowell "told me that he considered the demands of the Catholics to be fair and reasonable and in accordance with justice." The writer also says: "Rome in America is in the van of the forward movement to a greater extent than is generally imagined, and those who have studied the question with an open and generous mind have no doubt that the future welfare of the Republic lies in the hands of the Italian mission now flourishing in its midst."

The Czar Humbled by Leo. ROME, Dec. 30 .- A high personage of th Vatican in an interview to-day said: "The relations between the Pope and the Czar are at this moment very much strained. In July last the Pope wrote the Czar an autograph letter, in which he complained of the persecutions against Roman Catholics in Poland. It was written in a very sharp key. Leo XIII declared to the Czar that i the persecutions did not cease he would be compelled to protest solemnly, in the face of Europe, against the intolerance of the Czar. The Czar became frightened, and has just sent to Rome the Catholic bishop of Tiraspoi, a persona grata at St. Petersburg, to speak a good word to the Pope and to dissuade him from putting his project into execution.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Bodies of Three Dead Mountain Climbers Recovered.

VIENNA, Dec. 30 .- A relief party has discovered the body of Dr. Kohn, who, with two companions, lost his life while making the ascent of one of the peaks of the Gross Glockner. Dr. Kohn's body was found on a field of snow and ice. Near him was found a broken and blood-stained rope and a pair of gloves. It was evident that he had fallen a distance of 500 meters, and had lived after his fall, and had tried to extricate himself from the snow wherein it is believed his companions are imbedded. The three tour sts attempted the ascent of the peak without a guide in spite of the warnings that a heavy snowstorm was This afternoon the bodies of Dr. Passau

No Congratulations from America. LONDON, Dec. 30 .- A statement was published here to the effect that among the telegrams showered upon Mr. Gladstone, upon the occasion of his birthday, yesterday, were many touching messages from America. A reporter consequently called on Mr. Gladstone to-day and said that he would be giad to transmit to the United States any message which Mr. Gladstone wish to send to his American friends. Mr. Gladstone expressed his thanks and added that, as he had received no messages or letters from America, he did not think it advisable to send a reply.

Tortured late a False Confession. BARCELONA, Dec. 20 .- The five Anarchists, Codina, Rinaldi, Cerezuelo, Fogas and Bernard, were interviewed in prison to-day. They all denied that they were the actual authors of the Licero Theater outrage, and only admitted complicity in the attack upon General Campos. They mentioned as the real author of the Licero Theater outrage one Jacques Salvade, who is not known by that name to the police. The prisoners alleged that they only made

LETTER FROM A CRANK.

Judge Tuthill Informed that Cronin's Murderer Is Buried in Iowa.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.-Judge Tuthill to-day received a letter, apparently written by a crank, in which the writer says the murderer of Dr. Cronin is now buried beneath the sod of Iowa, and that he, the writer, has known the true story of the crime for years, but has been afraid to tell it. The letter is dated "Chillicothe," and signed "Sigmonds." The letter concludes with the statement that Coughlin is innocent, and that Dr. Cronin was killed outside the cottage because he had refused to keep silent concerning an assault on a girl, who was also killed in the Carlson cottage. In the Coughlin trial to-day Henry L. Tolman, the microscopical expert, took the stand. Judge Wing conducted the crossexamination. Nothing in addition to the testimony the witness gave at the former trial was developed. Sergeant Donald Mackinnon, of Winnipeg, was called to testify regarding Martin Burke's arrest in Canada. His testimony was substantially the same as that given on the former trial. Gustav Klabre, a tinner, testified to having soldered a tin box on May 6, 1889, for Burke. The testimony was the same as given at the former trial. Judge Wing objected to witness Klahre's story on the ground that the theory of the prosecution at the former trial had been that Cronin's clothes were in the box mended by Klahre, and that the subsequent finding of the clothes in Lakeview overthrew the theory, Judge Tuthill overruled the objection, however. At the close of Klahre's examination court adjourned until Tuesday. It was gossip in the court room to-day that the State, had discovered that juror Weinberger is intimately acquainted with a brother of Mrs. Thomas Whalen, in

WORK FOR MANY IDLE

Pittsburg Iron and Steel Mills to Resume This Week.

Thousands of Men Will Be Given Employment-Wage Scale Accepted by Carnegie's Employes.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 30 .- The advent of the New Year will be accompanied by a decided boom in industrial circles in this section. By announcement made by the various mill owners on the South Side nearly every mill will be in operation by the middle of next week. Most of the plants will be run double turn. The resumption on the South Side alone, it is estimated, will give employment to three thousand idle men. Among the mills preparing to start up next week are the Sligo rolling-mill, Oliver & Roberts's wire and rod works and Oliver's Tenth-street milis. As stated several days ago, all of the Carnegie plants will be in operation on Monday. The various wage scales are being rapidly accepted by the men. The scale at Beaver Falls was signed by three more have signed the Lawrenceville scale. Nearly all the men have signed at Homestead. Assurances have been given the men that work will be reasonably steady, as the company is taking all the orders it can secure, with the intention of operating the mills. After an idleness of nearly ten months the Carrie funcace No. 1, at Keating station, will be put in blast next week. About three hundred men will be given employment. Munhall's coal works, near Homestaad, will resume work next week, after being closed down for nearly five months. Over two hundred men will be given work. Speaking of the proposed resumption, Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie company, said to-night: It is our intention to not allow our 12,000 employes to want during the winter. We will keep our plants in operation, and where a mill is running on single turn we will provide for all our men by having alternating crews. The outlook is much better than at any time since spring. There is a better tone to the iron market and orders are coming in more freely.

Boom at Johnstown. JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 30.—The Cambria Iron Company has begun the erection of a steel rail mill, the estimated cost of which will reach $1,000,000. The foundation has been laid and part of the construction iron mostly in positon. The plant is to be one of the models of the world, equal if not superior to the steel rail plants at Sparrow Point, Steelton and Braddock. There is veritable boom in all the departments of the Gautier steel works here. It is reported that the works are two months behind orders. It is at least certain that over 1,000 men are working overtime, many making fifteen hours a day.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 30 .- The Ohio Legslature will be organized Monday, with Senator McConica as President protem, of the Senate, and Representative Boxwell as Speaker of the House. Both were nominated by Republican caucuses this evening. There was no opposition to McConica, but in the House Boswell was recognized as the McKinley candidate and Griffin as the anti-McKinley-candidate. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles Foster is reported to have felt aggrieved because the Ohi delegation at Minneapolis voted for Mc-Kinley instead of Harrison. Although Foster was formerly against Griffin, he joined the Foraker members and others for Griffin as against Boxwell. After conference between Hon. William Hahn, member of the national Republican committee, and Charles F. Dick, chairman of the State committee, representing Box-well and George B. Cox and Charles L. Kurtz representing Griffin, i was decided that Griffin should with draw and the nomination of Boxwell be made by acclimation. At the conference i was shown that Boxwell had 46 votes and Griffin 38. In the senatorial contest two years ago Boxwell voted for Sherman and Griffin for Foraker. ASSAULTED AND ROBBED.

A New Jersey Music Teacher Found Unconscious in a Vacant Lot.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 30 .- To-day little girl informed the police that a young woman was lying upon the ground in vacant lot upon Main avenue. On going there the police found that the young woman's skull was fractured and that her body was frightfully bruised. She was subsequently identified as Miss May Barrowcliffe, a prominent young music teacher. Her pocketbook and valuable diamond luster pin, which she wore, are missing, Miss Barrowcliffe was an orphan, and was employed at Rockwood's photograph gallery: No. 1440 Broadway, New York. It is learned that Miss Barrowcliffe left her home yesterday afternoon to give music lessons at Marion, N. J. She was to have dined at a Mr. Rowland's, in Wiley street, in the evening, but up to 10 o'clock she had not arrived there, nor did she re turn home. The police removed Miss Barrowcliffe to the City Hospital. She was inconscious, and has since remained so. She cannot recover. Miss Barrowcliffe has been a prominent member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. The presumption is that she was the object of criminal assault as well as robbery. The hospital surgeons said to-night that Miss Barrowcliffe was outraged, and the police have concluded that robbery was not the motive. Miss Barrowcliffe's throat plainly shows finger marks.

Mexicans Don't Care for Racing, so Mr. Pate Learned to the Tune of $200,000.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.-Col. Robert Pate, the turfman, has written a letter to Secretary of State Romero Rubio, of Mexico, throwing up his Penon race course concession. Colonel Pate refers to his efforts to make the meeting a success and to the woeful lack of transportation facilities. Unless the government comes to the rescue the Penon venture will forever be abanloned. The race course was intended by President Diaz to supersede bull fighting, which he prohibited in the federal district Colonel Pate admits having sunk $200,000 in the venture, and has directed Senor Rubio to dispose of his stock of thoroughbreds, valued at $100,000, and apply the money to the liquidation of numerous debts nanging over the track. Among the horses to be sold is the famous stallion Chancellor, the pride of the Pate stock farm, which was valued at $25,000, which, together with several other valuable animals, was to form the nucleus of a breeding farm he was anxious to establish in Mexico.

Peixoto's New Cruiser at Last Reaches Brazilian Waters. PERNAMBUCO, Dec. 30 .- Word has at length reached here of the arrival in Brazilian waters of the belated government cruiser America. She arrived to-day in the harbor of Ceara from Fort De France, It is said here on good authority that she will proceed southward at once to join the Nictheroy at Pernambuco. In reply to a dispatch sent to the United States minister at Rio de Janeiro by the Associated Press correspondent at this port, asking if the latter had any definite information as to the whereabouts of the Aquidaban and Republic, the two vessels under the command of Admiral de Mello which are said to be bound for this port in order to engage the Brazilian cruiser Nictheroy, Mr. Thompson has cabled a reply saying that he has no knowledge of where the insurgent Admiral or his ships ire to be found.

Recruiting for Peixoto's Army. PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 30.-A Brazilan Peixoto recruiting station was opened in Walling street, this city, to-day by Sergeant J. J. Richards, of New York. Thirty recruits for what is known as Rhodes sharpshooters, have been secured. They are signed to work a vessel from New York to some Brazilian port and are to receive $30 month and traveling expenses to and from Brazil, two months' pay to be received before they sail from New York.

Miantonomoh May Go to Trinidad. WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 .- No orders have been issued for the Miantonomoh to go beyond Hampton Roads, where she arrived this morning. It is highly probable that orders for her to proceed to Trinidad will be issued in a day or two, including probably orders for her to remain there on waiting orders. It is not decided yet whether she will proceed beyond that point southward.

Score One for Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 .- The festive tin horn, upon which noisy Chicagoans have been wont to play ear-splitting requiems for the dying year, has been put under the ban, Physicians, hospital authorities and quietloving citizens have been entering protests. and to-day Chief of Police Brennan issued an order instructing policemen to arrest all operators of the tin bugie.

Gone in Search of Colgate. KENDRICK, Ida., Dec. 30 .- A party of three men with pack animais left last night for the headwaters of the Clearwater to search for George Colgate, the cook for the Carlin party. A bottle picked up in the river at Penewawa, sixty miles from Lew-iston, indicates, if not a cruel hoax, that Colgate is among the living.

Great Sale of Housekeeping Linens and Cottons

On TUESDAY MORNING, at 8 o'clock, we commence our great Januuary Sale of LINENS and Cottons. For months past we have been capturing bargains and laying them away for this sale, and our European buyers, who anticipated the recent advance in the price of Linens, bought many special bargains when they were at the lowest notch. All these are marked at prices that will astonish many experienced linen buyers. But we are in for a Big Linen Time, and intend to supply everybody who will with the best linens it has been our pleasure at any time to sell. Of course we'll be censured for "playing the dickens" with the price. But then we bought them so low, and you know we like to share these little surprises with you. So come Tuesday. Remember, it's PHOTOGRAPHING SOUND. Experiments by Professor Raps of the Berlin Physical Society.

New York Herald. One of the most curious of modern experiments is that of photographing sound. The feat has actually been accomplished by Professor Raps, of the Berlin Physical Society, the method being based on the properties of a Janin refractometer. This instrument produces interference phenomena by means of the reflection and refraction of a ray of light on the surface of two very thin parallel glass plates. If the air between these two glass surfaces is made to transmit sound waves these interference bands are displaced according to the length of the sound wave, and by means of a piece of photographic sensitized paper kept in motion on a drum these aerial vibrations can further be recorded. It is stated that Professor Raps has by this means secured some photographs of the vibrations from the surging of vowel sounds which exhibit some remarkable peculiarities in the relation of the component parts of the sound to

It is fortunately not often that photog-

but such, however, has recently been the case in Garmany. A young woman, in the hope of softening the heart of an offended lover, had herself photographed in a coffin and dressed in grave clothes. She then forwarded the photograph to her erstwhile lover, who was so moved by the sight, believing her to be dead and himself the cause, that he went raving mad, and is now confined in an asylum, a hopeless case, The question is often asked by professionals why persons appear to lose all natural expression when they enter a studie to have their pictures taken, and thus make the task of the photographer so much harder. "All hope abandoned, ye who enter here," might be written up above the door, to judge from some as they walk irto the gallery as if it were a terture chamber. A London interviewer has been chatting with a West-end portrait photographer, who says that Lord Salisbury sits as if carved out of stone and never speaks. Lord Rosebery, although he dislikes sitting, makes a good subject, but Mr. Goschen, through inability to restrain a spasmodic twitching of the lips, spoils plate after plate. Lord Randolph Churchill is also a plate-spoiler. He hates sitting, is very irritable, and tugs at his beard until the last moment. Mr. Balfour looks bored but amiable, and has a difficulty in disposing of his legs. The Duke of Devonshire has to be carefully watched. He has been known to yawn in the middle one of his speeches, and carries the habit into one of the studios. A society paper is responsible for the statement that the Empress of Germany an ardent, dilettante photographer, and that wherever she goes the camera is in attendance. On the recent hunting expedition in Eberswalde, where the Kaiser sho a specially fine deer, the Kaiserine immediatery photographed it. She accompanied his Majesty on most days in strict hunting costume. The pictures are, however, only shown to favored friends, and the public may not have a glimpse of them.

POLITICS IN SOCIETY.

Democratic Party Quarrels Affect Women's Personal Relations. Washington special in Globe-Democrat. The dominant party in Washington is divided by differences which extend to personal relations. There are Democratic Senators who do not consider themselves upon speaking terms with the President. They decline to visit the White House to perform such a simple function as introducing constituents. They declare that they have been insulted by the administration. The bitterness of the fends within the party has even intruded upon society. The ladies have taken up the hard feelings. Some of them have declined invitations On the regular "day" of the wife of Cabinet Minister two ladies, making their rounds in visiting, called. One of the ladies is the wife of a member from the South, long prominent in the House of Representatives, and the other the wife of a Western member of large wealth and unbounded hospitality, and who, during his career in Congress, has achieved a national reputation. The ladies, on entering, dropped their cards into the extended tray of the hali boy, and naturally, of course, started for the drawing room. The man interposed with the remark that he would see if his mistress

Perplexed at what appeared an unaccountable incivility, their embarrassment was not lessened when they overheard the Cabinet officer's wife say to her servant to tell the ladies she was not in. They were more amazed at this for the reason that no one could mistake the meaning of the reply, lnasmuch as a reception was evidently then in progress and they heard the voices of other visitors. They returned to their carriages, shocked at such treatment. One of the ladies informed her husband as soon as he came home of the affair. He was so furious that he directed his wife to write to the wife of the Cabinet officer and demand that her cards be returned. They were sent back with a terse note saying that the lady of the Cabinet could not understand why the request was made. These ladies will not probably call again at the same house during the next three and a half years. Smallest Painting Ever Made.

Worthington's Magazine. The smallest painting ever made was the work of the wife of a Flemish artist. It depicted a mill with the sails bent and the miller mounting the stairs with a sack of grain on his back. Upon the terrace where the mill stood were a horse and cart, and on the road leading to it several peasants were shown. The picture was beautifully finished, and every object was very distinct, yet it was so amazingly small that its surface could be covered with a grain
